Lincolnshire County Council in collaboration with Lincolnshire Fire and Rescue offer the following advice on Water Safety, please click on the link for advice. It is important to be aware of the dangers of being around water. Of all drowning cases in the UK each year, around half of these were during activities such as running, walking, cycling or fishing near the water. Water in the UK remains cold even on very warm days and if you enter water it could lead to cold water shock.

What to do if you find yourself in water:

- don't panic
- assume a starfish position
- control your breathing
- call for help
